

OVERSEAS TRAVEL GRANT 2023

It is with great pleasure that we announce again details of an overseas travel grant for ANZSBT members, funded by CSL Behring, for a maximum amount of $5000. Suitable purposes for funding would include visits to overseas laboratories to learn new techniques or gain experience, and attendance at overseas scientific meetings or courses. The award is to be taken up within 12 months of the closing date of the application.

Applications should be received by the Secretariat no later than Monday 19th June 2023 and should include a letter of application outlining the reasons for the application:

1. The purposes for which the grant (if successful) would be used;
2. Anticipated costs and any other possible sources of funding;
3. A letter of recommendation from your Head of Department supporting your application; and
4. If, for the purpose of attending a scientific meeting it would be expected that the applicant would have submitted an abstract, evidence of the abstract should be submitted with the application.

The ANZSBT Council has resolved that awarding of grants is to be based on scientific or educational merit of the application as well as the availability of other funding for this purpose. Our aim is to ensure that Society members who do not normally have access to significant funds for overseas travel can receive assistance from the CSL Behring Travel Grant.

We are indebted to CSL Behring for the funding of this grant.

Those interested should submit an application by email to the
